PREFACE

Iron County was established in 1857. The county was formed from parts of many counties, which included Dent, Madison, St. Francois, Washington, Wayne, and Reynolds. Many marriages are available from Washington, Madison and St. Francois Counties which are all pre-Iron County. Most of the area that Iron County acquired came from those three counties. Iron County has never lost its Court House since its emergence, so much information may be found. It also has copies of almost all the newspapers published in the county, especially the Iron County Register which was its major paper for many years.

Book "A" and "B" in this publication are indexed separate. An index for Book "A" will start on page 43 and an index for Book "B" will start on page 78. Book "C" and the marriages from death notices taken from newspapers have no index as only six pages are involved.

It was never my intent to do a marriage book as that really is not my "thing". So many times I needed marriages on genealogy research, I had gone to the court house or library and always collected additional marriages mostly because I recognized the name. Knowing my collection will only make a huge bonfire when I breath my last, I decided to try and put it in print. Keep in mind the spelling of names as often the same name may be spelled several different ways. Some times it was impossible to decipher the name. A lot of this was read at the library on film making it even more difficult.

These marriages listed above do not include all the marriages in book "C" only those marriages that I had in my notes for use in research I have done in the past. The next marriages are taken from newspapers that have published a death and included their marriage. I have only taken down name of which I have some knowledge and many marriages were not recorded by me. Almost all these families spent some are all of their life in Iron County. Some of these marriages may be recorded in Iron County, Madison County, Washington County or St. Francois marriages at the court house. I never made any attempt to verify this in most cases.
